WHAT OUR NEIGHBORS SAY

Only Three License Towns on the "East Side."

(From the Brattleboro Reformer.)
There are only three towns on the entire east side of Vermont where licenses were granted this year for the sale of liquor—Burlington, Windsor and Brattleboro.

The two latter towns are in the extreme north-east corner of the State near the Canadian border. Where liquor is easily available, at least in small quantities, from across the border. The second congressional district was never so distinctly a temperance section as the present time.

On the west side of the State there are 11 license towns, each having a population of Burlington, Rutland, Bennington, St. Albans, Fair Haven, Vergennes and Colchester, which include the village of Windsor. The local conditions in these west side communities are far different from those in towns anywhere on the east side. The men in no license towns who are willing to vote to restrict the present local option law are also willing to change conditions about which they know little or nothing in towns many miles away.

SENATORIAL SUGGESTIONS

(From the Rutland News.)

There is talk in the air of opposition to Senator Page next year. The names suggested are Congressman Frank L. Greene, secretary of State; W. C. Bailey and Justice George M. Powers. We doubt if any of these has decided to enter the contest and that there will be nothing more than idle gossip until next spring when the issue really comes up.—Burlington Reformer.

When the proper time for discussion of the situation arrives, or when it seems advisable, or it becomes necessary to select a successor to Senator Page there will be no dearth of strong men for the position. In fact, the names given by the Reformer do not include one that will command instant attention and respect when it is mentioned. It is that of a native Vermonter, a graduate of Vermont college, who holds a man who has not been an office holder but who is thoroughly in touch with affairs, State and national, and who would in due course become such a leader in the Senate if he became a member of it, as was Proctor, Edmunds and Merrill. His name is—wait until the proper time!

EXCELLENT EXAMPLE IN FIRE PROTECTION

(From the Barre Times.)

Newbury has set the sister towns of her size in Vermont an excellent example in authorizing the expenditure of $2500 for an up-to-date system that will provide water in abundance for fire, domestic and manufacturing purposes. It is the history of too many towns in Vermont that some of the less essential things have been given precedence over the matter of fire protection. Happily the trend is in the direction of adequate preparation for the eventualities, and it may be noted that within a radius of a comparatively few miles of Barre, several towns have lately been to the expense of purchasing equipment for use in emergencies.

SLOWNESS OF JUSTICE

(From the Bennington Banner.)

The readiness with which Attorney-General Barlow and Sheriff Smith of Addison county arrested and held in custody, liable for the slowness of justice indicates that somebody feels to blame. Time will probably tell who. The State wants expenses of detectives kept down, but still in case of need would be willing to spend a few dollars without grumbling.

SAYS VERMONT ROADS ARE EXCELLENT

(From the Brattleboro Reformer.)

Hugh E. Eadie of Detroit, a former Vermonter, who has been at the head of the highway department of Michigan eight years, after a recent tour of this State says the roads here, considering the amount and kind of traffic, are excellent. In fact, he thinks Vermont has more good enough-for-the-traffic roads, for the amount of money expended, than any other State in the Union.

"WHY NOT VOLUNTEERS?"

(From the Rutland News.)

The Burlington News and Rutland Herald are both "talking war." Well, why not volunteers? It's too often the case that summary individuals and newspapermen want war but want others to fight it. The newspapers that "sit" this country on should be drawn on first for recruits in this matter.

ROOSEVELT AT MILITARY CAMP

Former President a Distinguished Guest at Plattsburgh.

Visitors from Burlington and Other Cities Find Much of Interest in the Routine of Work Done There.

A party consisting of Miss Mary Clark of New York city, Mrs. Henry C. Clark, the Misses Clara and Elsie Clark of East Orange, N. J., Miss Lois Bradford of Boston, and General T. S. Peck of the city left Burlington yesterday morning on the steamer Ticonderoga for a visit to the business men, camp of the Second United States cavalry, and the associated military organizations at Plattsburgh, N. Y.

Upon arriving at the barracks of the 2nd U. S. Cavalry, the party found the battalions of work horses, men's camp, engaged in a drill of battle tactics. The soldiers were in heavy marching order, carrying some fifty odd pounds of knapsacks, entrenchment tools and equipment, and advancing to rushes over the government reservation. The movements of the soldiers and the military precision with which they executed their difficult drill, were a wonderful sight to witness the drill. Among the soldiers could be recognized Grenville Clark, a former Burlingtonian, now a prominent lawyer in New York city, and his partner, Elton Root, Jr., Mayor of New York city. Dudley Field Malone, collector of the port of New York and two other officers of President Roosevelt's staff. When the party was met by the men marched back to camp, but full of enthusiasm, and the air being with the songs of "The Harvard Princeton," "Columbia," the University of Vermont and many other colleges.

Through the kindness of General Peck, the leader of the party were presented to the regimental Leonard Wood, U. S. A., and General Joseph T. Dick, U. S. A., and ex-President Roosevelt. The meeting of Mr. Roosevelt was particularly interesting to Miss Clark, who with her mother was granted a special interview with the White House by Mr. Roosevelt, during his occupancy. This interview was remembered by the ex-President as a great deal of pleasure, which resulted in Miss Clark's meeting of it.

Major-General Wood seemed to be everywhere, giving his individual attention to the various details of the camp. Too much credit cannot be given General Wood, his aide, Captain Kilbourne, and the other officers of his command. The men of the Second cavalry were doing their best to assist these patriotic men in their great desire to learn the art and operation of war. The officers of the 2nd United States Cavalry and other regular army organizations, the various posts were everywhere. In fact, every moment of the day was spent in teaching the men some part of a soldier's duty.

Ex-President Roosevelt arrived at the camp at 10 o'clock on the morning train from New York city, and spent the greater part of his morning here, looking over the barracks, the kitchen, the mess hall, the hospital, the laundry, the post office, the post exchange, the post store, the post bank, the post school, the post hospital, the post infirmary, the post dispensary, the post pharmacy, the post
